WHO SHOULD ATTEND

- Mid-level leaders with direct report managers
- Individual contributors who must lead by influence
- Experienced supervisors

COURSE STRUCTURE

Four highly interactive modules lead participants through a holistic coaching process. The first two modules are based on extensive research and focus on strategic coaching and change management concepts. Modules 3 and 4 provide opportunities to apply skills, reflect on coaching experiences in the healthcare industry and learn from others.

COURSE DELIVERY

This course is offered as an instructor-led, virtual course which includes four 2-hour sessions plus approximately two hours of individual prep work. The course can be delivered over several weeks.

Enable healthcare leaders to guide and motivate in ways which result in sustained change

COURSE OVERVIEW

Coaching is the skill that exceptional managers use to motivate, inspire and engage staff to achieve performance levels that they might not have thought possible.

This course provides training that will help mid-level leaders take a more strategic approach to coaching and motivating others, especially during times of change. Leaders use advanced instruments to practice and interpret coaching techniques that are immediately applicable to the healthcare environment for achieving better performance.

The course is also appropriate for mid-level individual contributors who must influence others rather than directly manage them.

The training is built around specific leadership competencies and behaviors that are important to company culture and values. Integrated skill practice exercises prepare participants to apply new concepts and approaches. Participants will develop scenarios which are highly relevant to the most significant coaching challenges and real-world experiences.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

In Advanced Coaching for Leaders, participants will:

- Identify tools and techniques to strategically lead and manage change.
- Identify effective coaching styles to help managers achieve desired results.
- Use instruments to define talent and opportunities for development.
- Create a meaningful, customized development plan.
- Leverage leadership strengths to become an even better coach and mentor.
- Identify high performers and help them achieve their full potential.
- Redirect mediocre/poor performers to get them back on a track of success.
- Develop recognition strategies to motivate higher performance.
